Who

ASID members and guests of members are welcome to attend

What

Montpelier was the home of James and Dolley Madison. James Madison was hailed as the "Father of the Constitution" by his peers and later became the 4th president of the United States.

His home, Montpelier, has recently been restored. Though the house is empty it has lots of architectural appeal. There will be someone with specific architectural historical and interiors background to lead the tour.

Bring your own picnic lunch or dine at the café at Montpelier.

Saturday, May 9, 2009
11:30 a.m.
