training presented by

Portland Police Bureau
Central Precinct | Neighborhood Response Team

The Portland Police Bureau Training Division created an informative presentation intended for schools, businesses, religious institutions, and public locations where the potential for an active shooter event may exist.

The Central Precinct Neighborhood Response Team offers this training for managers, directors, safety coordinators, and employees interested in learning more about how to prepare for, and survive in, an active shooter event. The training covers the following topics:

- ❑ An introduction of the term “Active Shooter,” what it means, and how it may affect citizens living and working in downtown Portland
- ❑ A summary of how to create a basic plan for an active shooter response, things to consider, and suggested policies for training other employees or staff members
- ❑ A comprehensive explanation of “Run! Hide! Fight!” and how it can maximize chances of survival during an active shooter event
- ❑ Information on how to interact with first-responders during or after the event to help contribute to police and medical effectiveness

The training is presented by members of the Portland Police Bureau, Central Precinct, Neighborhood Response Team. This training is offered once every other month, seats 30, and lasts approximately 2.5 hours. The training location is:
