REM INTRODUCES DUST COLLECTOR

August 27, 2013 – Farm Progress Show in Decatur, Illinois - REM Enterprises unveils the all-new Dust Collector option for the REM GrainVac VRX. According to Jody Duclos, Sales Manager, this critical accessory is something the industry has been looking for, and it is an important compliment to the new grain vacuum launched in March of this year. Duclos adds:

“The Dust Collector isn’t the only new grain vac option featured in the company’s revamped catalogue, but with agricultural dust under scrutiny and increasingly cramped storage quarters, grain handlers today need a way to manage the dust resulting from high speed loading, and that factor makes this dust collector big news.”

While the REM GrainVac design keeps dust safely away from the operator at the intake and the discharge dust is minimal, the dust exhausted in-between depends on the condition of the grain, and can appear quite extreme. The cyclone-style Dust Collector enables the operator to easily and efficiently collect or redirect debris. And just like the VRX machine, this design has endured extreme testing to meet the standards of REM GrainVac users.

The all-new Dust Collector and Options Catalogue can be viewed in full at grainvac.com. REM currently sells and supports this product line overseas and throughout North America.

REM Enterprises Inc is an agricultural equipment manufacturer founded in 1966. In addition to proprietary product selling under the REM and Delta brands, the company provides custom manufacturing services and spring wire forming for other OEM's in the industry. REM enjoys being part of the community of Swift Current, Saskatchewan as well as Shenandoah, Iowa. The company is online at rementerprisesinc.com.
