The Big "I" Virtual University's June Lightning Learning series features two 20-minute sessions dedicated to HO Trust endorsements and legal liability. Can't attend? Register anyway and we'll send you links to the on-demand recordings right to your inbox. Register once and get both 20-minute sessions including:

June 5 – Understanding the HO's Three Trust Endorsements

- One entity eligible for a HO policy is a Trust. However, ISO provides three trust endorsements – which one (or two) do you use? The answer depends on the situation.
- In this session we discuss the available endorsements and detail when each is to be used.

June 21 – How Does a "Person" Become Legally Liable

- Liability policies respond when an insured is legally required to pay for certain damages or injuries. Legal liability is liability imposed by the courts on the person or entity responsible for the injury or damage suffered by another party or individual. Such legal obligations (or liability) can arise from intentional acts, unintentional acts or contracts (express or implied) and generally deals with civil wrongs rather than criminal wrongs.
- In this session we detail legal liability and what is required for a person to be found legally liable. (There is a LOT more to legal liability than negligence.)
