FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

February 20, 2018

Colville, WA. – CEO/Owner Scott McMillan recently announced Colmac Industries, Inc. has promoted Justin Shamion to President. Shamion has been with Colmac since 2006 and held positions in production, operations and sales. His background includes a Masters of Business Administration from Eastern Washington University. Most recently he has been representing Colmac as a Vice President overseeing sales, marketing and administration. Shamion succeeds Cam Buffington who will continue to sit on the Colmac Board of Directors while assisting with future business development.

Colmac Industries is a privately held company and the cornerstone of Colmac's 200,000 square foot corporate office, manufacturing facility, and research and development campus located in Colville, Washington. Colmac Industries is the worldwide leader in garment finishing equipment, automated soil sorting and counting for the laundry industry and a leading manufacturer of heat pump water heaters for commercial and industrial applications.
