Ashes2Art: First Responders 9/11 Art Show

Clara Keane

The Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department's (FCFRD) Behavioral Health Section in collaboration with local artist Kathy Sullivan offer the Ashes2Art Program for first responders. According to the FCFRD, the weekly art class "allows participants to employ the unique creative abilities of emergency personnel directed in new ways." This month, to honor the victims and survivors of 9/11, participants of Ashes2Art displayed their work at the Reston Art Gallery & Studios. The gallery was open September 6-20, and a special reception took place on September 11th. READ MORE

In Support of those Impacted by Hurricane Florence and Remembering Hurricane Maria

AATA National Office

The AATA extends our deepest sympathies for all those impacted by Hurricane Florence. We mourn the 37 lives lost and our hearts are with their family and friends. We wish the swiftest recovery for the communities in the Carolinas as they return home, continuing to face the dangers and damage of the flooding, and begin to rebuild. Here are some resources to support communities recovering from Florence.

Today also marks the year anniversary of Hurricane Maria, the deadliest natural disaster to hit the United States in the last 100 years, which devastated Puerto Rico, claiming nearly 3,000 lives. The island still has a long journey of rebuilding ahead. Here are some ways you can help.

Art therapists are trained to provide integral support to their communities in the face of tremendous tragedy. If you are an AATA member organizing a community event, please consider applying for the AATA Trauma Recovery Fund, which has supported projects in the wakes of hurricanes Maria and Irma among others. Donations to support the fund can be made here.

The AATA adds Introduction to Position Statement on Supporting the Affirmation and Healthy Development Across the Lifespan of Individuals within LGBTQIA Communities

AATA National Office

In October 2017, the AATA adopted the following statement supporting the affirmation and healthy development across the lifespan of individuals within LGBTQIA communities. In response to sexual orientation change efforts (SOCE), The American Art Therapy Association unequivocally affirms LGBTQIA orientations are natural, positive, and moral variations of human sexual expression. This introduction and statement are intentionally strengths-based to clarify and confirm The Association and members affirm and embrace the LGBTQIA community. The Association unequivocally opposes SOCE as unethical. READ MORE

Second Lady Pence Visits Riley's New Art Therapy Program

Associated Press via WTTV-TV

Second Lady Karen Pence was in Indianapolis Monday rolling up her sleeves at Riley Hospital for Children. Riley's new art therapy studio allows patients to leave their rooms for sessions with a focus on improving mental health. "It's one of the great programs that they do for art therapy here at Riley because it takes something – a syringe that may be something that's intimidating to a child, and makes it something fun.," Pence said of the program. READ MORE

Meet an Art Therapist Who Unlocks Emotions Through Images

Nest
 A picture is worth a thousand words, or so they say. After meeting art therapist Dr. Patricia Fenner, it's hard not to be thoroughly inspired by that idea, or the transformative power of art to express the most profound, and difficult, aspects of the human condition. As senior lecturer and coordinator of La Trobe University's Master of Art Therapy program, Dr. Fenner is an expert on the role of art therapy in mental health recovery. READ MORE
