The Outer Banks®

OF NORTH CAROLINA

America's First Beach

It's a straightforward claim. America's First Beach. In 1953, Cape Hatteras was named as our country's first National Seashore, setting aside recreational area and public access to a pristine coastal North Carolina wilderness, preserving natural beauty on a grand scale. People have been drawn to our shores for hundreds of years. Explorers. Settlers. Pirates. Today's frontier is just as expansive but far more accommodating.

SATW Associate Aaron Tuell can help you uncover the next chapter for your readers.

Your perspective.

That's what makes Sevierville unique. From our bronze statue celebrating hometown celebrity Dolly Parton to ziplines, moonshine, local artists and lots of legends, this Smoky Mountain town is full of stories waiting to be told.

Sevierville. Great stories found here.

See Forks of the River Cemetery and a Home of Tomorrow on a self-guided historic walking tour.

Dolly's hometown is Sevierville and the singer has given back more than you know.

Two airworthy P-47 Thunderbolts make their homes in the skies above Sevierville.

Up to 5,000 fried pies are served each day on this working apple orchard.

OUR FAVORITE COLOR IS Sunset.

LIVING COLOR IN THE FLINT HILLS. America's vast, tallgrass prairie is our backyard. Space to roam and relax. Tap into pulsing college town culture and historic frontier pioneer heritage. Sip grain-to-glass craft beers and feast on local farm-grown food. Take a ride into the sunset on the Native Stone Scenic Byway. From dusk to dawn, find your happy place in Manhattan.

Oh Manhattan!

This year, take time to create memories.

You remember it, don't you? The family beach vacation: miles of blue water, sand castles at your feet, a sea breeze blowing your hair back, and not a cell phone or a skyscraper in sight. This year, plan a family trip to a place where memories come naturally, and time isn't the only thing that's preserved.
